Our fee's

We recognise that seeing a solicitor often comes at a difficult and stressful time in our clients' lives. We aim to provide high quality legal advice combined with value for money, and believe our rates are very competitive.

Our commitment is:

- A transparent fee structure and where appropriate a fee agreed in advance
- Regular, fully itemised, billing
- Value for money
- No hidden extras

Our fees are calculated on an hourly basis, depending on the seniority of the lawyer working on the case, and the complexity of the matter. We provide details of the hourly rates applicable to your case before we commence any work on your behalf. All fees exclude VAT and disbursements such as medical or interpreter fees if appropriate. Complex cases may attract uplift on the hourly rate, but this will be discussed and agreed with you in advance. Where we represent you in court proceedings we will usually charge a rate within the appropriate Guideline Rates band as published by Her Majesty's Court Service. We will advise you of this rate prior to issuing any proceedings on your behalf.

Fixed Fees

In residential conveyancing and in some other cases we can agree a fixed fee for the whole case or certain stages in a case. We will be able to give you an indication as to whether your case is suitable for a fixed fee after an initial consultation

Our Expertise in Litigation

Our Litigation Department works to ensure that clients with litigation disputes are represented in a pragmatic and efficient manner.

We have a wealth of experience in advising commercial clients in relation to legal issues and also individuals on problems that relate to them.

Our litigation department has experience in;

- Personal Bankruptcy
- Corporate Insolvency
- Building and construction disputes
- Landlord and Tenant Litigation
- ADR and Mediation
- Disputes involving Estates and Inheritance Claims
- Contract Disputes
- Company Disputes
- Debt Collection
- Partnership Dispute
- Property Litigation.
- Personal injury claims
- Contested wills and probate issues

Our Litigation department will also work towards resolving matters without the need for the issue of proceedings in Court. Litigating through the Courts or by arbitration can be both expensive and time consuming. We consider litigation as one of a number of options available for resolving disputes.

We will recommend mediation or negotiation if there is sufficient common ground to achieve a settlement. The swiftest route to a satisfactory resolution of a case can often be found in strong reasoned argument. However, we will take firm action where our clients' situation demands it.

We evaluate each case at the outset and provide straightforward advice on the merits of the case and cost issues. Our aim is then to conduct matters speedily but thoroughly and, at key stages, to assess both the financial and commercial implications of the case.

Our Expertise in Personal Injury

Personal Injury is a term used to describe any type of injury which has been caused to your body whether from an accident at work, a car accident or a pavement accident to name but a few examples.

The term personal injury is also used to describe illnesses or injuries resulting from clinical negligence and industrial diseases including asbestos related diseases. If you have suffered a personal injury due to someone else's negligence you may be able to make a personal injury claim.

What is achieved by making a Personal Injury Claim?

Victims of personal injury often have different reasons for wanting to make a personal injury claim. The main reason is often to claim a compensation payment for the pain and suffering which has been endured as a result of the personal injury. Often, compensation can also be recovered to reimburse any expenses connected to the personal injury such as lost earnings while the injured person is off sick or medical expenses.

Another common reason injured people decide to make a personal injury claim is to obtain a sense of justice; whether it is for themselves or a lost loved one. A Judge finding in the injured person's favour or an admission of liability from the person at fault for the personal injury can sometimes make all the difference to the injured person or their family who then feel able to move on with the rest of their lives.

Our Expertise in Wills and probate

Wills

Getting a Will in place is one of those tasks that many people tend to 'put off' until a later date thereby underestimating its importance. It is also a misconception amongst many that you need to have a number of assets or be of a certain age before you need to even consider preparing a Will. The fact of the matter is there is never the perfect time to prepare a Will so whatever your circumstances you should not delay. Dying without a Will can cause many problems for those who are left to deal with your estate and may result in the distribution of your assets in a manner that contradicts your wishes had you left a Will. We offer a will writing service and have a specialist team who can provide a tailor made Will whatever your situation. We also advise on tax implications and the setting up of trusts.

Probate

The Probate process can be daunting and convoluted however we are here to make it as smooth and streamlined as possible for you. We appreciate that it can be a very emotional time where perhaps a loved one has died and their relatives have been left with the difficult task of dealing with the administering of their deceased relative's estate. Whether a Will has been left by the deceased or not we can assist with the obtaining of Grant of Probate (where there is a Will) or Letters of Administration (where there is no Will). Our specialist team will complete the process from start to finish, from preparing the relevant tax and probate forms to the ultimate distribution of assets.

In addition, we have a wealth of expertise in drafting and negotiating complex agreements between suppliers, the NHS, and other healthcare providers.

The population is ageing and healthcare budgets relentlessly squeezed year on year. An entrepreneurial approach to providing the care demanded by an increasingly educated and discerning public is clearly the direction in which healthcare professionals need to move. Doing so creates opportunities for GPs, cosmetic surgery providers, and private clinics to use digital technology to increase profits and the effectiveness of services they can offer.

We work with dynamic healthcare professionals looking to embrace the future. We can assist you with:

However, our services extend beyond providing regulatory compliance advice. We also assist dental practices with:

- buying and selling a dental practice
- GDS (General Dental Services) contracts and PDS (Personal Dental Services) agreements
- employment law matters
- corporate finance – all aspects of and the securities for investments and funding arrangements
- drafting and negotiating supplier contracts
- terms and conditions
- commercial property matters
- partnership or shareholder agreements
- partnership or shareholder disputes
- defending dental negligence claims

Our legal advice on the buying and selling of dental practices is in-depth, pragmatic, and up-to-date. Our team will ensure that correct due diligence is undertaken at every stage of the process. We can also advise on the transferring of GDS and PDS contracts and Care Quality Commission (CQC) registration.

Our understanding of the industry extends to advising dental practitioners of their obligations under the Minamata Treaty of 2013. This includes a restriction, from 1 July 2018, on the use of amalgam in children under 15 years of age, and in pregnant and breastfeeding women, unless deemed strictly necessary by the practitioner on the grounds of medical needs of the patient. We partner with dental practices, becoming a part of their business to provide practical advice and representation over the long-term. In addition to providing advice and representation, our solicitors have built relationships with many London-based estate agents, accountants, financial advisors and lenders. This allows us to collaborate with other professionals to provide you with a complete legal service.
